Snow Willow Finalists (Gr. 7 & Up)

Eight Days

by Teresa Toten
Scholastic Canada Ltd., ©2022
ISBN
978-1-4431-902-2 (pbk)

Sami just learned that the mother she thought was dead, has actually just died. Now, with her grandfather and neighbour, the unlikely trio set out on an eight day road trip to recover her body, find out what really happened, and to learn what family really means.

Firefly

by Philippa Dowding
DCB, ©2021
ISBN 978-1-77086-598-3 (pbk)

From elaborate 1800s gowns to singing lobster costumes, thirteen-year-old Firefly has her pick while she lives in her Aunt Gayle's costume shop. With so many options it can be hard to find the real you, but sometimes it just takes a few tries to get it right.

Fly

by Alison Hughes
Kids Can Press, ©2022
ISBN 978-1-5253-0583-2 (hc)

Fly wants to be a hero. With courage, he must stand up to a rogue for the honour of the girl he loves. But it is not easy being a modern-day knight, especially when your trusty steed is a wheelchair and the jousting ground is the school hallways.

Four Faces of the Moon

by Amanda Strong
Annick Press, ©2021
ISBN 978-1-77321-453-5 (pbk),
978-1-77321-454-2 (hc)

Based on her family's history, Amanda Strong's stunning graphic novel takes readers on a journey through time with Spotted Fawn, a young Métis photographer. Her darkroom becomes a portal through which she meets her ancestors, and learns of what they endured in their fight to keep their culture alive.

How to be a Goldfish

by Jane Baird Warren
Scholastic Canada, ©2022
ISBN 978-1-4431-9230-9 (pbk)

Lizzie uncovers a secret during a family tree project. She asks Harry, a family friend for advice, but he is losing his farm! David has a chance for a new life after reading his grandfather's will. Together can they unravel their family secrets and save Harry's farm?

Houston, Is There a Problem?

by Eric Walters
Orca Book Publishers, ©2021
ISBN 978-1-4598-2873-5 (pbk)

When an invitation to space camp turns into a government project, Houston must learn to lead and survive the most difficult test of his life. Join Houston, Teal, and Ashley as they figure out what it means to really be a team and make it onto the mission.

Operation Do-Over

by Gordon Korman
Scholastic Canada Ltd., ©2022
ISBN 978-1-4431-9378-8 (hc)

Seventh graders Mason and Ty have been inseparable for most of their lives, until the new girl, Ava, walks into their classroom, triggering the end of their friendship. Following a freak accident, seventeen year old Mason finds himself back in seventh grade with a chance at a do-over.

The Limitless Sky

by Christina Kilbourne
Dundurn Press, ©2022
ISBN 9781459748873 (pbk)

Told from two perspectives, The Limitless Sky is a dystopian novel set years after a catastrophic event leaves society divided. Rook lives inside ArHK, an experimental community guarded from the apocalypse. Gage lives in the world Outside. Can they help each other and their communities when they connect by chance?

The Science of Boys

by Emily Seo
Tradewind Books, ©2022
ISBN 978-1926890371 (pbk), 9781926890401 (hc)

Emma, a science nerd, is hoping to fit in when she starts high school. A popular girl asks for her help to get noticed by her crush. Emma claims to be writing a book on the subject of boys and with the help of her friend invents science-based advice.

When You Least Expect It

by Lorna Shultz Nicholson
Red Deer Press, ©2021
ISBN 9780889956414 (pbk)

Holly wants nothing more than to make the national rowing team to compete overseas, but she gets cut, shattering her dreams. She returns home devastated. But she is not a quitter, and an opportunity arises to train with a renowned coach, who has a sadness of his own to overcome.
